

Horticulture students prepare soil and plant chestnut seeds in the school greenhouse. Once the seedlings reach a certain size, they are either planted on the school grounds or given to individuals to plant elsewhere.

Seedlings are transplanted in an outdoor bed before being placed in pots for people to plant elsewhere or being planted in their permanent location on the school campus.