

Students learn about solar panels by visiting the array on the outside of our school. Students also conduct simple maintenance of the panels.

The indoor monitoring system for the solar panels.

A digital electronics student checks the output of the solar panels.